CRITIQUES

DIANA KEEVAN PRESENTED A OPEN HAND which then balances a round map of the world, on a circular disk. She used a electron form technique a wax process then burn out with metal which she can patina the disk will have engraved words and she will experiment with different patinas. Is the world balances? She also showed beautiful copper bracelet which we all thought was great and make more

MELLISA WOODBURN has added 4 new ceramic and woven pine needle shapes on legs to her family. A debate as to their name Not WHAT":IT" These serious ART. Every one agreed they were wonderful Soft and Hard

ROY FOREST is working on his metal wire shapes He uses 100 feet of wire formed around two opposite poles and bound in the middle to form the shape . He uses acrylic paints and gold leaf. He is experimenting on more variations on the theme,

JOANNE SALZ showed us more of her beautiful transparent kimono's One with different fabric and more readable words in the embroidery. It was suggested that a plastic tubing at the bottom to give them some weight She says she will make a total of 21 all slightly different in message and maybe some color. Representing one's journey through life

BETH HARTMAN WENT TO AN encaustic workshop in Washington state which she really liked. She show us a framed picture of a woman emerging from the shadows perhaps a immigrant facing barriers . She an interesting to print the drawing.

Luystardu { a stiffening that can be bought a Joanna fabrics} then encaustic over the surface. Then she showed a Box she working on not to open just to suggest/?

DEBLE FAULKER worn a white shirt she has embroidered with a little clothe devil sitting on the shoulder. Very charming. She will make more.

SUSAN HELLER Presented her tribute to her Dad. A series of his smiling face in stages of Alzheimer's. She embroidered small white shapes representing amyloid plaques which take over the cognitive brain cells. It was very moving yet beautiful.

She also showed us pictures of her Commission for a couple who had seen her work. "Zero Gravity Dreamscape"? Two female figures floating in space, a quilted sky. Most beautiful

CHIS MOTLEY presented a coiled abstract wool piece made with knitted red wool over wire. It was suggested she fill in the spaces some more, She then showed the beginnings of another made from knitted "I CORD" to cover the wire. She will keep on this work

SHEILA TUFFANELLI is working on a 12ft dragon/lizard. Good luck

OLD BUSSINES NO NEW MEMBERS FOR AWHILE

NEW BUSSINESS October workshop will be at Art Works Down town thanks to Phyllis Thelan and Carole Beattle will be the director. Ventana is still question what we need to bring but all the materials will brought by Carole at $40 cost to us total. She will receive an horanrium of $300. More info later.
